Piraeus, February 24, 2022

General

The 2-day International Conference on Postgraduate Research in Maritime Technology 2022 (PostGradMarTec 2022) will provide an opportunity for younger postgraduates to present and discuss their work, and to meet with other postgraduates world-wide from universities and industry in a conference environment.

Postgraduates are invited to present their current and recent research in any field relating to the design, construction and maintenance of marine vessels and structures. Such research should be ongoing or completed within the past five years

The Conference will also provide an opportunity for other members of the maritime community to gain an insight into the latest research emanating from universities and industry.
